

Introducing Shareef Ahmed, M.D.

One of only a handful of dual fellowship-trained retina and glaucoma surgeons in the world, Shareef Ahmed, M.D. specializes in treating complex vitreoretinal disease with concurrent primary or secondary glaucoma. He has presented at international meetings and authored several works in national peer-reviewed journals on surgical techniques, eye infections, and characterizing new ocular diseases. He is actively involved in teaching new resident ophthalmologists and collaborating with other eye care professionals to further our knowledge of dangerous ocular conditions.

Dr. Ahmed earned a bachelor's degree in biology from the University of Virginia and received his medical degree from the Medical College of Virginia. He completed his ophthalmology training at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit where he also received advanced training in the medical and surgical treatment of glaucoma and retinal diseases. There he received awards for excellence in medical care and teaching. He was an associate member of the Henry Ford Department of Ophthalmology until joining the Ophthalmic Specialists of Michigan.

Dr. Ahmed is board-certified by the American Board of Ophthalmology. He is an active member of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the American Society of Retina Specialists. He was elected a member of the prestigious Alpha Omega Alpha Medical Honor Society for his exemplary medical care and ethics. Dr. Ahmed actively participates in international medical mission work in under served, developing countries. He feels strongly that a kind and supportive bedside manner is important when treating patients with potentially blinding eye disease.

In addition to cataract surgery and glaucoma management, the Ophthalmic Specialists of Michigan medical staff includes vitreoretinal and oculoplastic specialists. They offer diabetic eye care, retinal examinations, eyelid surgery, LASIK procedures and treat macular disease. The Ophthalmic Specialists of Michigan have three offices in Dearborn, Livonia and Madison Heights, in addition to the Livonia Outpatient Surgery Center which is adjacent to the Livonia office.
